PRIVATE RESIDENCES · SINCE 2015

Residences of quiet consequence.

Architecture, interiors and construction — conceived as one, delivered by one studio, for families who build once and build well.

A NOTE FROM THE STUDIO

One studio. One signature. From first sketch to final key.

A great residence is rarely the work of many hands that never meet. It is the work of a single, continuous intention — one that understands the land, the family, and the life the house must hold for generations.

We work slowly where it matters — in the plan, in proportion, in the choice of a stone — and precisely everywhere else. Our clients rarely remember the process. They remember how the house feels at six in the evening, when the light comes in low across the floor.

Since 2015, Edge Homes has brought architecture, interior design and construction under one roof. The team that draws your home is the team that builds it, finishes it and hands you the keys — with one contract, one point of accountability and nothing lost in between.

This profile introduces how we think, how we work and what we offer the families who entrust us with their most personal project. We would be glad to continue the conversation in person.

WHAT MAKES US DIFFERENT

Most residences are designed by one firm, detailed by another and built by a third. Every handover is a place where intent is diluted, time is lost and accountability blurs.

At Edge Homes, architects, interior designers, engineers and site teams work as one studio. The drawing set is coordinated before a single brick is laid, and the people who promised the design are the people who deliver it.

OUR PHILOSOPHY

Six principles we never trade away.

01

Site before style

Every project begins with the land — its sun, breeze, trees, neighbours and views. Style follows from place, never the other way round.

02

Proportion over ornament

Rooms that feel right are measured, not decorated. Ceiling heights, thresholds and sightlines do the work that ornament only imitates.

03

One material story

A restrained palette of honest materials — stone, timber, lime, brass — carried from the gate to the wardrobe. Restraint is what reads as luxury.

04

Light as a material

We design daylight first and electric light in layers, so the house holds many moods — morning calm, evening warmth, celebration.

05

Built exactly as drawn

Because we build what we design, every detail is resolved on paper and executed by our own teams. No interpretation, no surprises.

06

Made for generations

Homes that age gracefully, adapt to changing families and are engineered to be maintained — not replaced — over decades.

WHAT WE DO

Three disciplines. One contract.

01

Architecture

Site studies, master planning, concept and design development, structural coordination, statutory drawings and approvals support.

- — MASTER PLANNING
- — NEW-BUILD RESIDENCES
- — FAÇADE & ELEVATION
- — APPROVALS SUPPORT

02

Interior Design

Spatial planning, material palettes, lighting design, bespoke joinery and furniture, art and styling — resolved with the architecture, not after it.

- — SPACE PLANNING
- — LIGHTING DESIGN
- — BESPOKE JOINERY
- — STYLING & ART

03

Turnkey Construction

Civil works, services, finishes and fit-out delivered by our own teams under one contract — with transparent BOQs, milestones and site reporting.

- — CIVIL & STRUCTURE
- — MEP SERVICES
- — FINISHES & FIT-OUT

SPECIALIST SERVICES

Landscape & outdoor living

Lawns, courtyards, pool pavilions and terraces designed with the house.

Restoration & reconfiguration

Sensitive renewal of older bungalows — keeping character, upgrading performance.

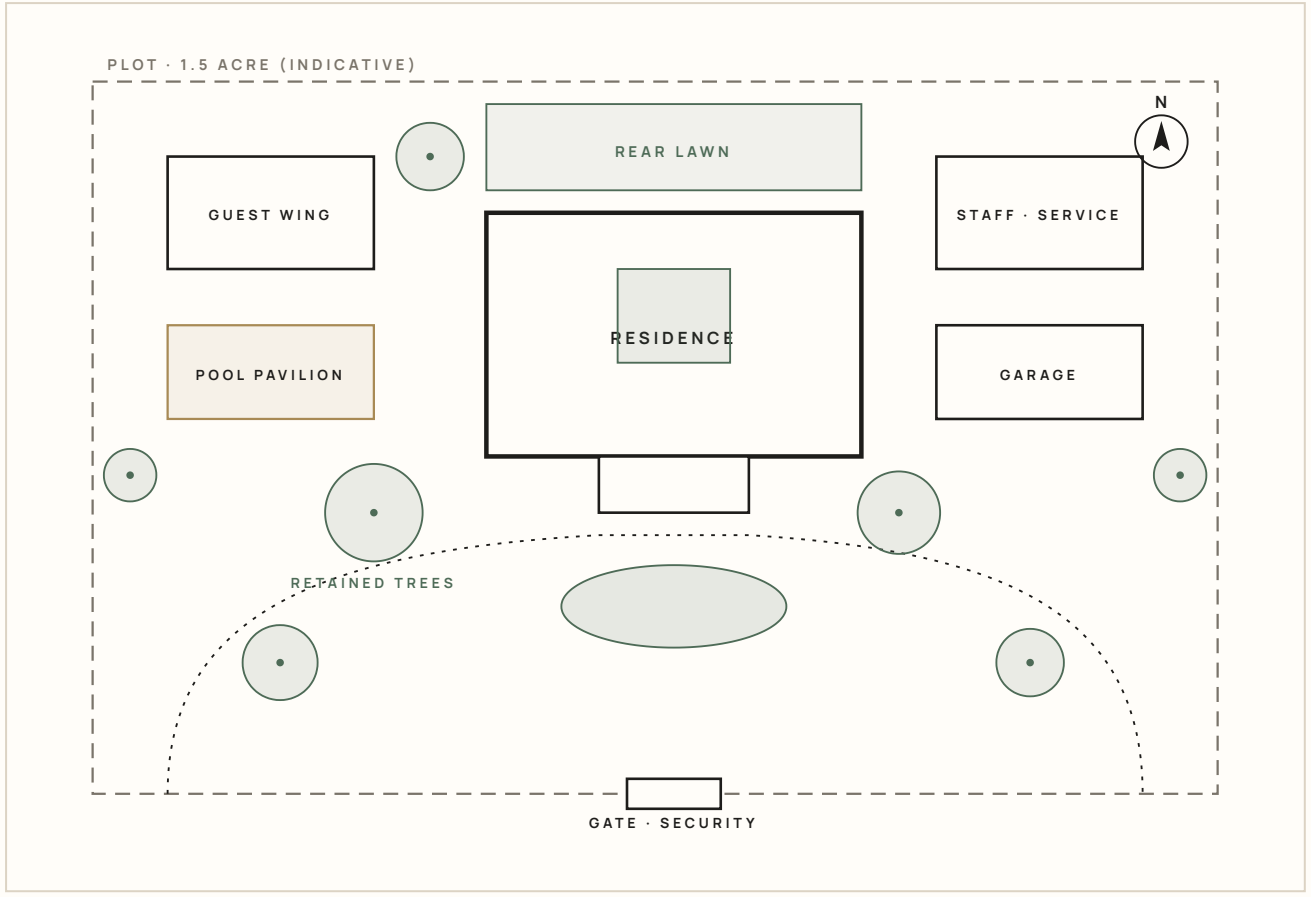

Smart & secure homes

Integrated automation, security, AV and climate — planned into the walls, not added on.

FOR THE DELHI RESIDENCE

A bungalow address asks for more than a design.

From Lutyens' Delhi, Golf Links and Jor Bagh to the farmhouse estates of Chhatarpur and Westend Greens, a residence here carries history, scale and responsibility. This is how we approach one.

Heritage & controls

Bungalow-zone character, height and setback limits and approval processes shape what can be built. We plan within them from day one.

The trees come first

Mature trees are part of the address. We survey and retain them, and let them set the plan, the views and the shade.

Scale for hosting

Formal and family spaces that work for twelve or two hundred — with service routes that stay unseen.

Staff, service & security

Staff quarters, kitchens, garages and guard posts zoned so the household runs quietly and privately.

Generations under one roof

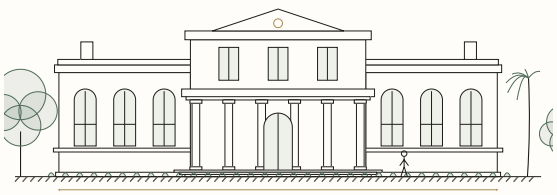

Independent suites, shared courtyards and lifts planned so three generations live together, comfortably apart.

Climate, the old way

Deep verandahs, high ceilings, shaded west walls and cross-ventilation — the wisdom of the Delhi bungalow, re-engineered.

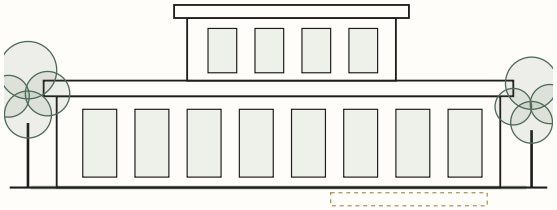

WHAT WE BUILD

Four kinds of home, one standard.

The City Bungalow

Kothis and bungalows on established plots — new-build or rebuilt, with formal reception, family wings and gardens.

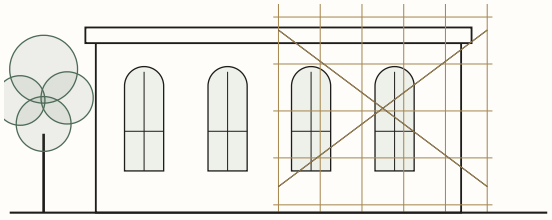

The Farmhouse Estate

Low, generous pavilions set in landscape — with pool, guest and staff wings planned as one estate.

Floors & Penthouses

Builder floors and penthouses with the finish and planning of a private residence, terraces included.

Restoration & Renewal

Older homes renewed with care — structure strengthened, services upgraded, character kept.

> "The measure of a good studio is not the drawings it produces, but how calm the client feels while the house is being built."

CRAFT & MATERIALS

Fewer materials, chosen with care.

We keep a working library of stones, timbers, metals and finishes, and a network of craftspeople — stone carvers, joiners, metalworkers, polishers — who work to our drawings. Every slab and veneer is approved by you before it is installed.

Breathable walls with a soft, hand-worked finish

Indian stone

Jaisalmer, Kota and sandstones, cut and laid to drawing

Solid timber

Teak and oak joinery, crafted for decades of use

Terracotta & handmade tile

Earthy accents from India's craft clusters

Imported marble

Selected slab by slab, book-matched where it matters
